Information Sought :

As PSUs like BPCL HPCL ONGC IOCL GAIL are allowed to go for campus placement in different colleges for the post of executive engineer from next year. Till now the only procedure for recruitment is through GATE score.
my question is:
Are PSUs going to select through campus placements only and not based on GATE score from next year as they have limited vacancies.

Sorry, but I personally believe this is not justified method to recruit. PSUs jobs are dream job for everyone. Every year many people work really hard for GATE exam to get into PSUs and those who actually want to pursue their career in technical field. People who give GATE exam, they are actually very technically sound. GATE results tell that who actually wants to join and will work considering it as long term future plan. I believe GATE is refined way for recruitment.

Due to new method if, PSUs will go for campus placements, those people who do not want continue their career as an engineer but for the sake of job they will join for few years. These people will left the company very soon also to pursue their actual dream. This would waste of resources and time.
